Description

This study focuses on understanding the mental health treatment decision-making experiences of ethnic/racial minority Veterans with serious mental illness. Veterans who participate will discuss the experiences they have had, as well as their preferred experiences. Finally, they will review a treatment decision-making intervention and be asked to give their feedback so that it fits the needs and values of this group of Veterans.

Requirements

1) identify as one or more ethnic/racial minority; 2) have a serious mental illness diagnosis (including schizophrenia and depression, among others); and 3) current or previous VA mental health service participant.

Benefits

You may feel empowered or enjoy discussing these experiences. Your contribution may help other Veterans with serious mental illness benefit more from mental health services.
